Wilette C. Diggs

*Director of Human Resources
Employee Relations/Labor Relations & Compliance
Raytheon Missile Systems*

Wilette C. Diggs is Director of Human Resources (HR) – Employee Relations/Labor Relations & Compliance, at Raytheon Missile Systems. In this capacity, she is responsible for ensuring leaders and employees work in an environment that ensures respect, and values the contributions of all of its employees (salaried and bargaining unit). This includes ensuring that as a Government Contractor, RMS’ ten sites that span across six states honor our commitments with our employees and our Customer. Prior to this assignment, Wilette was responsible for developing and executing customer service strategies for Missiles Business Enablers Client Services Team, to ensure optimal organization performance excellence. The Business Enablers Client Services Team supports the following RMS organizations: Finance, IT, Communications, Contracts, Legal, and Human Resources for the RMS Enterprise.

Over the years, as Manager of Human Resources, Diggs has been a business partner with front-end-of-the business organizations such as Advanced Programs and Business Development, as well as Missiles’ Product Lines, Exo-atmospheric Kill Vehicle (EKV) and Extended Range Guided Munition (ERGM). She has also managed Diversity Programs, Employee Relations, Compliance, and the Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) program for the Missiles enterprise.

Diggs held a number of progressively responsible Human Resources positions with Hughes Aircraft Company for more than 10 years, when she left Hughes Missile Systems Company to work in the private healthcare industry. Prior to rejoining Raytheon Company, Diggs held the position of Regional Human Resources Manager for CIGNA Healthcare’s multi-site operations in Tucson, and surrounding areas of Southern Arizona.

She has been recognized by Missiles as a recipient of the “Woman on the Move” in recognition of achievements in the workplace, community, and ongoing support of Raytheon’s goals and values, as well as Missiles Employee Resource President’s Group for demonstrating outstanding support and guidance for the business Employee Resource Groups.

Diggs has served on a number of local and national boards such as the National Board of Directors for DirectEmployers, a collective body of employers whose purpose is to provide a common communications system for Human Resources professionals in the private and public sectors who are responsible for human capital management, including the employment process, and is currently serving on the Workforce Investment Board, a nationally recognized organization whose charter is to promote the job placement and employment of individuals within the local community. Diggs also served on the Board of Directors of the YWCA in Tucson.
